Much of life is driven by value. We want to know, "Is it worth it?" Advertising will speak of activities that are worth the time and of possessions that retain their worth. We speak of a person being "worthy" of a certain honor. An athlete plays for "all he's worth," meaning to the full extent of his ability. Our challenge is to identify and pursue that which is most worthy.

As you prepare for this week's study, read Isaiah 7:14; Micah 5:2; and Jeremiah 31:15 in your Bible, then locate these quotations in Matthew 1–2. Why did Matthew quote Old Testament prophecies so many times in his Gospel? Use the Personal Study Guide commentary for Session 3 to help you answer this question.
