Sunday School Snippets

Biographers will spend hundreds of pages describing the life of their subjects, but generally limit the pages about their death to just a few. For example, the three-volume biography of Winston Churchill, The Last Lion, by William Manchester and Paul Reid devotes 2,622 pages to Churchill's life and only three to his death. This is not the case with the Gospel of Matthew's account of Jesus. Jesus's death was central, and Matthew devoted seven chapters out of twenty-eight to chronicle the events surrounding the crucifixion of Jesus.

Read Matthew 27:27-31,45-54 in your Bible to gain an understanding of all Jesus went through. Gain more insight by reading the commentary in Session 14 of the Personal Study Guide.
